GREAT DAY.

Knights of St. John Held Their Grand Commandery in This City.

By-Laws Changed to Make the Sessions Two Years Apart.

Religious, Business and Social Features Were of Much Interest.

STREET PARADE WAS IMPOSING

The Kentucky Commanderies of the Knights of St. John, one of the strongest Catholic fraternal societies in the United States, held their annual State convention in this city last Sunday, and the event had religious, business and social sides. More than 600 uniformed Knights took part in the street parade, and perhaps as many more visiting Knights were not in uniform. Many of the visitors were accompanied by ladies and children. The visitors came from Covington, Newport, Maysville and other points in Eastern Kentucky. Many arrived by boat on Saturday evening, while others arrived on early trains on Sunday morning.

Local Knights and delegates assembled at St. Boniface's church for an early mass. After the mass they repaired to the school hall adjoining the church, and spent the remainder of the forenoon in the transaction of necessary business. Grand President William T. Hohnhorst, of Covington, occupied the chair. Some time was spent in the reading of officers' reports and the disposal of other routine matters. Delegates from fifteen commanderies took part in the deliberations. All the reports showed that the Knights of St. John in Kentucky were sound financially and socially.

The Committee on By-Laws recommended very few changes, and the convention concurred in all the recommendations. The most important change was to hold biennial instead of annual conventions. The next State Commandery will meet at Newport in 1912.

The election of Grand officers brought the business session to a close. The result was as follows: Spiritual Adviser—Right Rev. C. P. Maes, Bishop of Covington.

President—William T. Hohnhorst, Covington.

First Vice President—Clem Wiegand, Louisville.

Second Vice President—Cyrille Catteller, Cincinnati.

Secretary—Frank F. Lueke, Covington.

Treasurer—George Benz, Bellevue.

Judge Advocate—Frank Brinkman, Louisville.

Sergeant-at-Arms—John R. Fox, Louisville.

The Grand President, two Vice Presidents, Secretary, Treasurer and Judge Advocate were chosen to serve as Grand Trustees. Capt. P. J. Breen, of Louisville, installed the officers. The following Knights were chosen delegates to the Supreme convention, which will meet at Cedar Point, Ohio, June 19 to 23: Col. H. G. H. Reilman, Covington; Martin Stephens, Newport; Frank F. Lueke, Covington; Clem Wiegand, Louisville; William Weber-schlagel, Bellevue; M. A. Swift, Maysville; William T. Hohnhorst, Covington; Joseph B. Abel and William Rueff, Louisville; Robert Eilerman, St. Louis; and Frank Johanneman, Covington.

While the business session was in progress the members of the Uniform Rank attended a high mass in St. Boniface's church. Arrayed in full uniforms and with flashing swords the Knights presented an imposing appearance. After the mass the Knights dispersed for dinner. At 1:30 o'clock the uniformed Knights assembled for the grand street parade. Market street, east of Preston, was the point of assembly. The fifteen commanderies, aggregating 600 men, lost no time in falling into line, and headed by a squad of mounted police and a brass band followed this line of march: Market street to Jackson; south to Green, east past St. Boniface convent and church to Clay; south to Walnut; east past St. John's church to Shelby; south to Broadway, passing St. Martin's church; east to Underhill street and thence to Baxter avenue and Phoenix Hill Park.

At the park uniformed and un-uniformed Knights were tendered a reception and luncheon. The Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Elizabeth, an adjunct of the Knights of St. John, furnished a tempting luncheon. For several hours the visitors and local Knights and ladies enjoyed themselves in social conversation. All of the visitors were loud in praise of Louisville's hospitality.

The ladies of St. Elizabeth's Auxiliary who served the luncheon were Mesdames Joseph Breen, Catherine Peter, Elizabeth Betz, Elizabeth Biglow, M. Mohlenkamp, M. Mullen-schager, Elizabeth Lodenkemper, M. Hollenkamp, M. Friedman and Miss Anna Gosmann. They were assisted by Mesdames Anna and Josephine Hillerich, Susan Pfister, Margdalena Rieger, Barbara Rettner, Mary Henle, Nellie Fisher, Lillie Fox and Frank Fleck.

BRIGHTER DAYS

Have Dawned For Ireland, Says Noted Galway Priest.

The Rev. Father McHugh, of Galway, Ireland, was the chief guest and principal speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Irish Fellowship Club of Chicago last Saturday afternoon. Among other things Father McHugh said: "A new Ireland is rising out of the depths of English slavery like a star in the firmament. There is no country in the world that has made such progress as Ireland for the last twenty-five years. The chief reason for this is fixity of land tenure, which has been responsible for a revival of industry and education. The land is just emerging from the darkness of the penal code. Ireland became subject to England and was forced to recognize Henry VII. as King, because it lacked a strong central power, able to unite all the tribes and clans. With the country in that state, the wily Saxon, under plea of extending aid, crossed the channel and obtained a foothold. The greatest battle has been the struggle of the remnant of Ireland against oppression and for freedom of thought. The history of the country is written in the ivy covered ruins that spread through the land." Col. John I. Martin, former Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives, was another guest of the Irish Fellowship Club. He spoke on the life of Major Gen. James Shields. He said in part: "He came to this country and served it both in war and peace. As a school teacher, as legislator, as State Auditor, member of the Illinois Supreme Court, members of the House of Representatives, and as United States Senator, he served his adopted land in time of peace. In time of war his biography stands among the bravest and most patriotic."

CATHOLICS LEAD.

Census Report Shows Big Numbers in Larger Cities.

According to the United States census of religious bodies for 1906, the aggregate number of members or communicants of all religious denominations in continental United States was 32,936,445. Of these the Roman Catholics alone had 13,679,142 as against 20,287,742. Of the total membership of the Roman Catholic church 27.9 per cent. were found in cities with a population of more than 300,000.

It is seen therefore that the number of members of the Roman Catholic church reported in cities of the first class was considerably more than double the number reported by all Protestant bodies, while outside of the principal cities the number reported by the Catholics was only a little over one-third of the number credited to the Protestants. Of the total number of communicants or members reported for the principal cities by all denominations 6,307,529 or 60 per cent. belonged to the Roman Catholic church, while 3,935,341 or 37.4 belonged to Protestant bodies.

YOUNG HEROINE.

New orkers are congratulating Miss Annie Burke, who presides over a news-stand at the One Hundred and Sixteenth street station of the great subway, for her pluck and bravery. Last Saturday an aged man, overcome by vertigo, fell on the track in the subway and two other men went to his assistance. They were aiding him to safety when the roar of the approaching train was heard. Miss Burke grabbed a lantern, ran toward the approaching train and succeeded in stopping it within a few feet of the men, who seemed doomed to destruction. Miss Burke is only twenty-one years old.

THE OLDEST ELK.

Daniel O'Connell, of Owosso, Mich., has the distinction of being the oldest member of the Elks fraternity in America. He was in his one hundred and sixth year when initiated recently, and he expects to take part in the Grand Lodge reunion in Detroit next July. This seems not an unreasonable hope on the old man's part, as at present he takes a walk of ten miles once a week without any difficulty. Many men of half his age would hate to have that task before them. If spared for the July reunion he will be the subject of special honors at the hands of his brethren of the Elks.

ARCHBISHOP'S HOMECOMING.

The home coming of His Grace Archbishop Moeller will be a memorable event. A meeting of Cincinnati priests was held last week to inaugurate preparations for a splendid welcome to their beloved head returning from his first visit to Rome and his four months' travel through Europe and the Holy Land. A committee, composed of twenty priests, was appointed at this meeting with power to make all necessary arrangements. It was decided as a testimonial of regard for the Archbishop to present him on his return with a fine automobile.

MYSTERIOUS

Disappearance of Little Alma Kellner Apparently Solved.

Skeleton With Portions of the Decomposed Flesh Is Found.

People of St. John's Parish Are Loyal in Support of the Pastor.

REWARDS FOR MAN'S CONVICTION

The people of Louisville have been disturbed very seriously this week by the finding of the skeleton of a child in the long forgotten subcellar beneath the music room of St. John's school. It is claimed that the skeleton is that of little Alma Kellner, who has been missing from her home on Broadway, near Hancock, since December 8. Circumstances lead the police authorities to believe that the body is that of the little girl, but to many the identification is neither convincing nor satisfactory. Certain facts stand out prominently: Alma Kellner has never been seen alive since she left the home of her parents on December 8. The skeleton of a child with bits of decomposing flesh adhering to it was found in the subcellar of the parochial school on Monday. The clothing and shoes found with the skeleton have never been satisfactorily identified by the parents of the missing child.

It is also true that Joseph Wendling, a former janitor of the church, has disappeared. His wife has been taken into custody as an accessory to murder by the local detectives. Wendling and his wife are French. They had been only two years in America and had learned very little English. Ladies of the Altar Society of St. John's parish who came in frequent contact with Mrs. Wendling regard her highly. They believe that she has been very much ill-treated by the local authorities.

The whole thing has been a blow to the Catholics of all Louisville as well as those of St. John's parish. Yet they have borne up bravely under the strain. The people of St. John's parish will stand by their pastor, the Very Rev. Dr. Schumann, until the incident is cleared and closed. The strain upon him this week has been great, but he has been equal to all emergencies.

Every Catholic in Louisville is anxious for this mystery to be cleared up. Foul murder seems to have been committed. The murderer should be found and punished. This is no time for jumping at conclusions, nor for blaming police or detectives for laxity of vigilance. Reserve your judgment until all the facts are known.

For the Kellner family everybody has sympathy, but this is not the occasion for idle words. It is a time for every man and woman to aid the police in unearthing the mystery and in establishing beyond a doubt the guilt of the murderer.

Rewards amounting to $4,500 have been offered for the arrest and conviction of the murderer up to Thursday evening. Frank Fehr, a cousin of little Alma Kellner, offered $1,000; Cols. John H. and James P. Whallen offered another $1,000, while the General Council offered a reward of $2,500 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer.

All late developments point to the fact that the body found is that of Alma Kellner, but the identification is not satisfactory or convincing. It is expected that Gov. Willson will offer an additional reward on the part of the State, and additional rewards may be forthcoming.

If it can be proven that little Alma Kellner was assassinated and her body buried in the subcellar, none will be quicker to aid in avenging the crime than the Catholic people of Louisville.

MORE MEMBERS

Now in Churches of United States Says Census Report.

Advance proofs of the special United States census report show that the rate of increase in the number of religious organizations and communicants or members was much greater than the rate of increase in the population of the principle cities between 1900 and 1906. The report shows that for the area outside these cities, the rate of increase in the number of organizations was approximately the same as the rate of increase in population. The figures are taken from 150 principal cities of the country. Cities having a population of 25,000 or more in 1900 were divided into four classes; eleven cities of the first class had over 300,000 population; twenty-seven cities of the second class with between 100,000 and 300,000; forty cities of the third class with from 50,000 to 100,000, and eighty-two cities of the fourth class, having from 25,000 to 50,000 inhabitants.

The census report shows that the first class cities showed the greatest increase in the number of communicants of churches, and claims that the result is due chiefly to the greater strength of the Roman Catholic church in the cities.

CLEMENS WIEGAND, Elected First Vice President of the Knights of St. John.

FESTIVE OCCASION.

Jubilee of Father Cronin Will Assemble Many Clergy.

A great gathering of priests of this and neighboring dioceses will assemble at St. Patrick's church on Tuesday, June 14, when the Very Rev. Father James P. Cronin, V. G., will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination. An elaborate musical programme has been arranged for the occasion. The jubilee mass will begin at 10 o'clock, with Father Cronin as celebrant, of course. The Rev. Father Patrick Walsh, pastor of Sacred Heart church, will be deacon, and the Rev. Father Dominic Crane, Chaplain of Sts. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital, will be the sub-deacon. The Very Rev. Dr. George Schumann will be the master of ceremonies.

The sermon will be preached by the Very Rev. William P. Hogarty, of New Haven, Ky. Father Hogarty prepared Father Cronin for his first holy communion and gave him that sacrament. He has been a close friend of the present Vicar General for more than thirty-five years, and is well able to speak of Father Cronin and his career.

On Monday, June 13, Father Cronin will celebrate a solemn high mass for the children of the parish. On this occasion the sermon will be preached by the Very Rev. Father J. L. Clark, O. P., Prior of St. Louis Bertrand's Convent. On Sunday and Monday evenings, June 12 and 13, the parochial school children and friends and people of the parish will have a musical and literary programme.

On Tuesday after the jubilee mass Father Cronin will be the host at a breakfast to the clergy at Seelbach's Hotel. About 200 invitations have been sent out and many of the clergy have signified their intention of being present at the mass and breakfast.

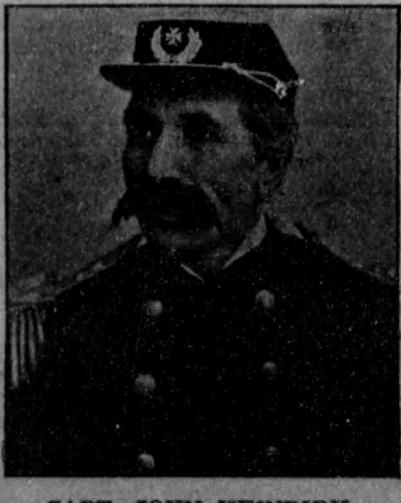

The laity of St. Patrick's church are arranging for their part in the celebration.

TRINITY COUNCIL

Adjourned Out of Respect For a Deceased Brother.

Trinity Council transacted no business at its meeting on Monday night. As soon as President V. K. Ecker rapped for order the death of Leo J. Guenther, an esteemed member of the council, was announced. The meeting closed at once and the members proceeded to the home of the deceased, where prayers were said for the repose of his soul.

It was announced that on next Monday night a speaker from the Anti-Tuberculosis Society, which is about to wage a ten-days' campaign against the white plague, would address the council. All the members are working hard for the success of the annual picnic, which will be given at Fern Grove next month.

CAPT. JOHN HEINDIRK, Pioneer Member of the Knights of St. John.

POPE PIUS ON THE COMET.

A cablegram from Rome to the New York World says: "Under the guidance of Father John G. Hagen, director of the Vatican observatory, Pope Pius X. has made an observation of the Halley comet. His Holiness remarked that what he saw scarcely warranted the commotion it had caused throughout the world."

MEMORY

Of the Dead Heroes of United States Navy, Army and Marines.

Military Mass Celebrated With Great Pageantry in Brooklyn.

Noted Chaplains Officiate and Many Societies Took Part.

FATHER CHIDWICK PREACHED

The eighth annual military field mass in honor of the dead soldiers, sailors and marines of the United States army and navy was celebrated on the parade grounds of the Marine Barracks, United States Navy Yard, Brooklyn, at 10 o'clock last Sunday morning. The service was held directly under the supervision of Gloucester Naval Camp, United States War Veterans, assisted by the Long Island Chapter, Knights of Columbus, and the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Brooklyn and New York. The mass was supplemented with military pageantry, grand music and the firing of artillery.

The celebrant of the mass was the Rev. Father Matthew C. Gleason, U. S. N., of the Receiving Ship Hancock, and formerly attached to the United States flagship Connecticut in the trip around the world. Rev. Father McGroun, Chaplain of the Fire department of New York City, was deacon, and the Rev. Father Francis J. Sullivan, Chaplain of the Police department of New York, was sub-deacon, while the master of ceremonies was the Rev. John F. Nash, LL. D., rector of the Church of the Sacred Heart, and who for many years ministered to the sailors and marines of the navy yard.

The sermon was preached by the Very Rev. John P. Chidwick, now President of Dunwoody Seminary, but formerly Chaplain of the ill-fated battleship Maine.

Past District Deputy Arthur S. Somers, of the Knights of Columbus, had the direction of a choir of 100 voices with orchestra and piano accompaniment. The choir and orchestra interpreted selections from Haydn's and Gounod's masses. But this was not all the music. The navy band, the Sixty-ninth Regiment band and the bands of the police and letter carriers rendered special programmes.

The mass was celebrated under an imposing altar and canopy erected by the Long Island Chapter of the Knights of Columbus. A platform five feet high was erected for the altar. The canopy or dome was decorated in blue, white and gold, representing the heavens. Four Corinthian columns supported the canopy. A profusion of flowers decorated the altars. After the mass the flowers were taken to the various cemeteries to decorate the graves of the soldiers, sailors and marines.

At the elevation of the sacred host the roll of drums was heard and a salute was fired from a field piece, while the officers brought their swords to salute and the Marine guard of honor formed the cross at the altar. The military formation on the parade grounds was under the command of Major P. M. Bannon. The assembly and formation on the street approaching the navy yard was under command of Grand Marshal Walter F. Allen, of Gloucester Naval Camp, No. 5.

It is estimated that at least 20,000 persons were in attendance at the mass, though many were unable to get close enough to get even a glimpse of the altar. Hibernians and Knights of Columbus with the military organizations in swelling the throng.

The military field mass for dead soldiers and sailors is not new in European countries, but it was first celebrated in America eight years ago by the Rev. Father Ramey, then a Chaplain in the United States navy. Since then it has been celebrated annually, and each year the attendance is greater and the services more elaborate.

SACRED HEART

Of Jesus Honored by Catholic This Month.

Yesterday was the feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, and was observed in all Catholic churches in Louisville, but the principal celebration was held at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Seventeenth and Broadway. The Rev. Father Patrick Walsh celebrated a high mass at 7 o'clock. It was followed by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. As it was also the first Friday of the month the services in all the churches both morning and evening were well attended.

As May is devoted to the honor of Mary, the Mother of God, June is in a special manner dedicated to the honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus. Observation of the first Friday of each month has become commonplace among Catholics. Few Catholic families there are who do not have at least one member that receives holy communion on the first Friday of each month. Pope Pius X. has explained that the object of adoration is the real, physical heart of our Lord and Saviour. When Catholics adore the loving heart of Jesus they adore the person of the Word, made Flesh, manifesting his love in his divine heart.

TOUCHING STORY

Of Missionary Among the Derelicts of New York.

The Rev. Father Luke J. Evers, pastor of St. Andrew's church, New York City, and the first priest in the United States to celebrate an early morning mass for newspapermen and night workers, conducts a mission on the Bowery. It is known as the Mission of the Holy Name. It is non-sectarian in character; no questions are asked any of the visitors as to whether they are Jew or Gentile, Catholic or Protestant. Good behavior is all that is expected. Services are held every Sunday and Wednesday evenings, when a short sermon is preached and the entire congregation joins in singing hymns.

Very recently the Rev. Father Thomas Judge, a Vincentian, conducted a mission for these unfortunate. He relates the following incident: "Just as we were about to start the services word was received from the organist that she had been taken suddenly ill, and Father Evers announced to the congregation the news, adding, 'You must all sing out. You know the May hymns. They are familiar. Now all sing out.' As he repeated these words a man in the audience rose and hastily following him down the aisle, said:

"I can play, Father; let me play. For twenty years I played an organ in church; do let me play tonight!" "Father Evers turned and saw that the speaker was one of the many unfortunates whom he had noticed at the Holy Name mission. He was between fifty and sixty years old, but his countenance still retained marks of refinement and evidence that he had seen better days."

"Can you play, my man? Are you sure? Well, go up in the organ loft and let's hear what you can do." "In a minute the volunteer organist was at the keyboard, and as the strains of 'Holy God, We Praise Thy Name' filled the church the congregation recognized the skilled hand of the musician playing with feeling. Aspirations defeated, ambitious unfulfilled, were heard in the voluntary, and the thought came to me that at least one soul had been reclaimed. He gave his best and then went away before any one could learn his name."

DISTINGUISHED

Churchmen Visit Sacred Heart Retreat for Day.

The Very Rev. Father Jerome, Provincial of the Passionists for the Western province of the order, arrived in Louisville on Thursday, accompanying the Very Rev. Father Joseph, First General Counselor of the order. Father Jerome's headquarters are in Chicago, while Father Joseph's quarters are in Rome. Next to the General, Father Joseph is first in command of the Passionist congregation. He came to America recently to bring five Passionist nuns, the first members of the order to come to the United States. They have established a convent in Pittsburgh and already have five postulants. Father Joseph is an American. Both Fathers Jerome and Joseph left Friday for St. Louis and from there they will go to Chicago, where the new Passionist monastery is to be dedicated on June 12.

Very Rev. Fathers Daniel McGuire, C. P., and Very Rev. Father Wilfrid Avery, of Sacred Heart Retreat, will represent that institution at the dedication. Archbishop Quigley will conduct the services.

YOUNG LIFE CLOSED.

The entire parish of St. Cecilia mourn the untimely death of Miss Susan Cooper, who passed away at her home, 2524 Slevin street, on Tuesday morning. Death followed a serious attack of lung trouble. Miss Cooper was twenty-five years old and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Cooper. Besides her parents she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Edward Hannigan, of Indianapolis, and three brothers—Harry and John Cooper, of Louisville, and Edmund Cooper, of the United States navy. Miss Cooper was a very devout Catholic. Several years ago she felt called to a religious life and entered a convent. Ill health caused her to return home. Few young ladies in Louisville were more highly regarded, and the attendance at her funeral, which took place from St. Cecilia's church Thursday morning, was a manifestation of the esteem in which she was held.

NAZARETH.

The annual commencement exercises at Nazareth Academy will take place on Thursday morning, June 16, beginning at 9:30 o'clock. Nazareth being one of the most noted female educational institutions in the Southern States, there will be a large number of visitors, and a special will be run that morning from this city.

GRATEFUL.

King George V. Is Said to Be Favorable to Irish Home Rule.

Tories and Liberals Are Unable to Agree on Plan for Compromise.

Lord Rosebery Insists on His Scheme for Reform of Peers.

IRISH PARTY IN THE ASCENDANT

The cause of home rule for Ireland has gained enormously through the death of King Edward VII., says T. P. O'Connor, M. P., and able lieutenant of Hon. John E. Redmond, and Mr. O'Connor qualifies his statement, that King Edward would have been glad to have speeded a home rule Parliament in Dublin in the most of circumstances allowed it. King George V. feels grateful for the messages of sympathy to him and his royal mother by his Irish subjects. It is the first time in the history of the union between Ireland and England that even a few communities of Irishmen expressed sorrow over the death of an English King. It is believed that expressions of sympathy from Irish subjects will do much toward inducing King George to favor the Irish masses. He would gladly have the Irish question settled.

But the struggle in Parliament will not be decided for several weeks. Will the next general election be held in September or January? The result is open to doubt. The Tories are divided and King George does not want to begin his reign with something akin to civil war. Rumors of compromise are in the air, but it is difficult to see how a compromise can be devised which will give each party all it wants. The Liberals must have the power to pass home rule for Ireland and the disestablishment of the Welsh church despite the House of Lords. The Tories may not object to this so much as they object to other forms of legislation, and the advocates of protection or tariff reform, as they call it, are so anxious to secure protection that they are anxious to be rid of home rule for Ireland and disestablishment for Wales.

Nobody can forecast the future until Parliament opens. The chief discussion in the journals of the rival parties is over the proposed coronation oath. Some opinions accept the desirability of sparing the King the humiliation of insulting his 12,000,000 Catholic subjects, but enough rabid Protestantism is left to show that opinion is not unanimous and that a Ministerial measure can not pass without opposition in Parliament. When things become normal the Liberal programme probably will not show any change in the main purpose or tactics, but there may be a change of dates for the consideration of important measures. It is believed that a bill dealing with an appropriation for the new King probably will meet with less opposition than the previous occasion, everybody being anxious to spare him unnecessary worry at the beginning of his reign.

Lord Rosebery insists that he will not waver in his purpose to reform the House of Lords. Some are of the opinion that his plan will augment rather than curtail the power of the Lords. The real point at issue is whether the next general election will come in autumn or January. The Laborites, the Radicals and the Irish Parliamentary party will insist upon an early date.

Parliament will not reassemble until next Wednesday, and this renders any discussion of politics at close quarters impossible. Meanwhile both parties have leaders out making speeches as if the contest was now on.

The disturbances in Cork following the appearance of Hon. John E. Redmond, Dublin and O'Connor are deplorable, but at the same time have no injurious effect on the solidarity of the Irish party. It is a certainty that the Redmondites will be stronger than ever as a result of the next election.

ENTERS URSULINE CONVENT.

Miss Sophia Wathen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Wathen, of Louisville, received the white veil of an Ursuline in the chapel of the Ursuline Sisters at Cincinnati last Sunday. The Rev. Father J. B. Murray, V. G., was the officiating clergyman, and he was assisted by several others. Among those who attended the ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Wathen, parents of the novice, and J. B. Wathen, of Louisville, her uncle; Mrs. Ingraham Jenkins, of Montgomery, Ala., her grandmother, and other relatives from St. Louis, Chicago, Ypsilanti, Mich., and other points.

THIRTY MORE PRIESTS.

On June 30 the Most Rev. Archbishop Glennon will ordain twenty priests and ten Redemptorists to the priesthood. The ceremony will take place in the St. Louis University.
